

About the Director:

Claudia Richarz is an experimental and documentary film maker, and a mother of two sons.

In 1978 she co-founded “bildwechsel”, an independent cultural and media center for women in Hamburg. In the late 1990s, together with Carl-Ludwig Rettinger, she realized the documentary series “Abnehmen in Essen” for WDR/arte, and was awarded the Grimme Prize. Her feature film “Vulva 3.0” (in collaboration with Ulrike Zimmermann) celebrated its world premiere at the 2014 Berlinale.

During her studies at the University of Fine Arts in Hamburg, Helke Sander was one of her professors.
